Detectives Investigate a Fatal Collision

(January 1, 2023) Phoenix police detectives responded to the area of 24th Street and Campbell Avenue to investigate a fatal collision that left an adult female pedestrian deceased.

Phoenix police responded to a vehicle collision involving a pedestrian just after 8:00 p.m. on December 31, 2022. When officers arrived, they found an adult female victim unresponsive on the ground. Phoenix Fire personal responded and pronounced her deceased.

Investigators arrived on scene and learned that the vehicle operated by an adult male was driving northbound on 24th Street crossing Campbell Avenue when he had struck the victim while she was in a marked cross walk. The driver reported he had a green light prior to the collision and that the victim was crossing against the light.

The driver stayed on scene and was evaluated for impairment. Investigators did not see any signs of intoxication from the driver. No arrest was made regarding this incident.
